He Lost His Job Because His Work Was Poor

Why was his work poor? Because:

His head ached;

His eyes pained;

He used 50 more energy than the man with good eyesight.

Glasses would have saved him his job.

The True Colonial House Reflected the Character of Its Owner

A FTER the Revolution, the log cabin had served its greatest purpose as the American home, and our country became more receptive to education and refinement.

At this stage of our progress, the true Colonial house, with its stern, puritanical exterior, and bright, warm interior, symbolized the lives and hearts of the American people.
